

NAVY FAMILY RESOURCES

INTRODUCTION:

This unit highlights a few of the many resources available to Navy families. Resources available through Military OneSource, a Department of Defense sponsored program will be emphasized. A guest speaker from Navy-Marine Corps Relief Society (NMCRS) will provide information regarding the Society's financial, non-financial and educational assistance available to command families. Navy Services Familyline, a volunteer, non-profit organization dedicated to serving naval spouses around the world through their programs and publications, will also be discussed.

GOAL:

The goal of this module is for you to:

- become aware of resources available to Navy families
- understand the various resources available through Military OneSource
- understand the mission of NMCRS and its volunteer opportunities
- understand Naval Services Familyline, it's mission and resources available for command families.

ADDITIONAL RESOURCES:

- Military OneSource: www.militaryonesource.mil
- Navy-Marine Corps Relief Society: www.nmcrs.org
- Naval Services Familyline: www.nsfamilyline.org

“There is clear and compelling evidence that a solid command support foundation, underpinned by prepared and informed families, is a major part of unit success.”

ADM Jonathan Greenert

TOPIC OUTLINE

1. Military OneSource
 - introduction
 - eligibility
 - privacy
 - range of support

2. Navy-Marine Corps Relief Society
 - introduction
 - how NMCRS can assist command families
 - how spouses can assist NMCRS

3. Naval Services Familyline
 - introduction
 - programs and publications
 - volunteer opportunities